

AMUNDSEN WILL ATTEMPT FLIGHT

Explorer Will Try to Fly Over North Pole Next Spring.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—Word direct from Captain Roald Amundsen that he and his pilot, Lieutenant O. Omdahl, will hop off from Wainwright, Alaska, the latter part of May or the first of June to fly across the North Pole to Spitzbergen, was brought to Seattle Sunday by E. J. Ward, government school teacher at Wainwright.

Amundsen plans, Ward said, to make the flight of approximately 1700 miles across the polar solitudes in one jump, carrying for subsistence only a thermos bottle of hot tea and a sandwich. When he left Wainwright, Ward said, Amundsen and Omdahl were building their winter quarters, a cabin on the beach near the school house. They are well supplied with food and fuel for the winter, having killed two whales, some walrus and seal, and having a reindeer herd of 4,000 animals and a coal mine nearby.

The schooner Maud, Amundsen's exploration ship, according to Ward, is drifting northward in the ice floe at such speed that the explorer was of the opinion it might cross the pole and reach Spitzbergen in a year, though it may take longer. The Maud is provisioned for seven years.

SALESMAN BECOMES LUCKIEST BALL FAN

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—James P. Hon, a St. Louis salesman, is the luckiest baseball fan in the world.

Thousands may lose sleep and scramble for precious world series pastebards—but not Mr. Hon. He has his tickets right now, a personal check for $100 from Ban Johnson, president of the American league, and round trip transportation between St. Louis and New York. All that because he solved the "pop bottle mystery."

Fielder Whitely Witt, of the Yankees, was struck on the head by a pop bottle in the recent "crucial series" between New York and St. Louis. He was so badly injured he had to be carried off the field. Several rewards were offered for the identity of the thrower of the bottle.

It was right then that Mr. Hon up and solved the mystery. It was a poor day for Whitely Witt, but a lucky one for Hon. He wrote a letter to President Johnson explaining just how the incident happened. Witt, he said, while running, stepped on the neck of the bottle, causing it to fly up and strike him in the head. Mr. Johnson was so pleased with Hon's explanation that he sent him the reward, the tickets and railroad transportation. And in addition to that his employees, Morris and company, have given him leave of absence at full pay to attend the games.

MEXICO HAS PLAN TO AVOID MUTINIES

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 2.—In consequence of Saturday's revolt at Juarez, which is now regarded as completely put down, the war office has determined to adopt a policy of changing garrisons at all border cities every three months, as a precautionary measure against further uprisings. This has been decided upon as it is believed the troops stationed at border cities are subjected to extremely insidious propaganda directed from the North American side of the border.

Secretary of War Zerrano Sunday expressed surprise at the defection of any portion of the Forty-third battalion, as it has an enviable fighting record. Dispatches received here say the rebels have been scattered. Several scores were made prisoner and numerous others surrendered their arms and asked clemency.

A dollar bill for expenses incident to collecting the bill was also sent with a photograph of the lady and the words "Go-la-la" written underneath.

BALKAN WAR CLOUD BREAKING BY NORRIS W. QUINN.

The situation in Asia Minor, which, as you remember, threatening to cause a great war, grew steadily worse for several days, but toward the end of the week took a sudden turn which promises a sort of harmony for the time being, though it may not mean the end of trouble for good.

Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish general, after beating the Greeks and driving them from Asia Minor, began moving toward Constantinople, former capital of the Turkish Empire but under the allies since the world war.

In substance, Kemal said to the allies: "I want for Turkey, all of Thrace as far as the Maritza river, together with the cities of Constantinople and Adrianople. If you do not give them to me, I shall come with my army and take them."

France and Italy seemed in favor of giving to Kemal what he asked, but Great Britain refused, began rushing ships, troops, cannon and airplanes to resist Kemal, and there was every prospect of a fight. At the last moment, however, at a meeting of the allies in Paris, the British partly consented to Kemal's terms, upon condition that troops be kept out of the territory where the Turks and their neighbors are most likely to quarrel; that an allied army be permitted to remain at Gallipoli, in order to be sure that the ships of the world may at all times pass freely through the Dardanelles; and that Turkey's Christian subjects be assured protection.

This agreement has not been positively closed but the prospects are that it will be concluded. It is a postponement of trouble rather than a final settlement. Still, it is better than fresh war now.

To understand the Turkish situation you should find these places on your map: Constantinople, Adrianople, Thrace, the Maritza River, Asia Minor and the Dardanelles.

NEW LAW ON TARIFF PASSED

After more than a year of debate in congress, a new tariff bill has been passed and signed by the president. The law went into effect September 21.

The tariff is a schedule or list of duties or taxes placed on articles brought into our country (imported).

Those who favor the new law think it will prevent countries abroad from flooding the United States with cheaply produced goods and underselling our own manufacturers and they estimate that it will bring into our national treasury, to pay government expenses, from $350,000,000 to $400,000,000 a year.

This law will be called the Tariff Act of 1922. It is called also the Fordney-McCumber tariff, because its authors were Representative Joseph W. Fordney of Michigan and Senator Porter J. McCumber of North Dakota.

It allows the president to change duties or taxes from time to time, when conditions affecting them change.

REGULATES TRADING IN GRAIN

Another law signed by the president, which will not go into effect until November 1, is called the Grain Futures Act.

It regulates the buying and selling of wheat and other grain in our great exchanges, in Chicago, Minneapolis, Duluth, Kansas City, St. Louis, Toledo, Milwaukee, Los Angeles and Baltimore.

The law forbids those who trade in grain to use schemes plots or conspiracies to affect prices, or to spread false reports that might affect them.

The secretary of agriculture is given power to oversee the operation of grain exchanges and to make sure that nobody violates the law.

SOLDIERS' BONUS FAILS.

Another measure which congress passed, but which did not become law, because the president refused to sign it, was called by most people the Soldiers' Bonus Bill.

Many persons have felt since the world war that the American soldiers who served in that struggle were not sufficiently paid at the time and it was to give them a further allowance that the bill was intended. It was too complicated to explain in detail but this was its general purpose.

To make such a law it is necessary that both houses of congress shall give majorities in favor of the bill and then that it shall be signed by the president. If the president refuses, the law still may be passed "over the president's veto," as it is

A New Charm

Came to millions in this way

Millions of people have gained new charm through whiter, prettier teeth. You see them everywhere. The reason lies in a new cleaning method. Careful people of some fifty nations are using it today.

Test this method if you do not know it. People all about you have proved its importance. See what it means to you.

Combats the film

One purpose is to combat film on teeth—that viscous film you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. It absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. Then it forms cloudy coats. Tartar is based on film.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats film. So, under old methods, these troubles constantly increased, and beautiful teeth were seen less often than today.

Two ways found

To meet this situation, dental science searched for ways to fight film, and two ways were found. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. The name is Pepsodent. These two great film combatants are embodied in it. Then dentists the world over began to advise its use.

Other factors

But Pepsodent brings other effects which old ways did not bring. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Thus it gives manifold power to Nature's great tooth-protecting agents. And everywhere this means to people a new dental era.

Watch the man

Men who smoke find that tobacco particularly stains that film. Such men see conspicuous results. But most people's teeth, of every age, are clouded more or less.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

That test will give you new ideas of what clean teeth mean. You will want your family to always have them, we believe. Cut out the coupon now.
